

ALSAGER TOWN COUNCIL

Press Release – March 2008

THE LIGHTS GO ON AGAIN IN SCHOOL LANE ALSAGER

After a long wait the street lights are working again in School Lane Alsager.

After the Town Council stepped in with £2000 towards the scheme, Cheshire County Council have put in a new electrical supply and replaced the existing street lights with 5 new stainless steel lamp columns covering the whole of School Lane and one new column on the path opposite the annexe to Highfields Primary School.

Councillor Andy Snape (Chairman Alsager Town Council) says 'its taken some time to get the County Council to undertake this work, but we are very pleased that the lights are now back on and hopefully this will go some way to reduce the vandalism/unsocial behaviour that has been experienced in this area.'
